New VA facility

Work will begin this summer on an administrative-research building at the Veterans Administration Hospital site in Livermore. The building will replace facilities torn down for failure to meet earthquake safety standards. It will house office space for administrators and provide research facilities for a total area of 20,000 square feet Reid and Tarics Associates are the architects of the $1.5 million structure Contractor bids were received this week, and an announcement on awarding the bid is expected shortly.

Council says pay for line, then solve sewer problems

PLEASANTON — The obvious need to convince Pleasanton voters to pay their two and a quarter million dollar share of the LAVWMA pipeline was the only conclusion the city council reached in a special study session about solutions to sewer woes Wednesday night.

Four of the five alternatives presented by assistant city manager Alan Campbell require the LAVWMA pipeline, the fate of which voters in each of the three major valley communities will are expected to determine this November.

The only one of the five options outlined by Campbell which omitts the LAVWMA pipeline has two alternatives. One of the choices is to maintain status quo and use the $1 million in the Sunol plan phaseout fund to keep the old plant operating properly at its 1.7 m.g.d. ultimate capacity.

The other alternative is to build a new plant of 2 to 2.5 m.g.d. capacity, assuming the Bay Regional Water Quality Board would issue discharge standards that would permit such a plant.

The second alternative would cost around $5.5 million but funds potentially available would reduce the net cost to around $3 million.

Campbell's estimates in all five alternatives had a wide range of costs because little is known yet about many factors influencing solution to the sewer problem.

The Environmental Protection Agency has not notified the city yet about how much the VCSD plant will be permitted to expand. That decision will have a big influence on whether the city should build its own plant and also on how much it will cost to phase out the old plant. EPA won't let the city know about VCSD expansion for another month, said city manager Bill Edgar.

The council was hoping to have more definite information by now, so it could sort out priorities for the November ballot. If a new sewer plant is needed, its cost could go on the ballot, which in turn might effect possible bond issue proposals for a Las Positas overcrossing and a tax override for additional police and fire personnel.

But the only thing the council is certain about after the Wednesday night meeting is the importance of the LAVWMA bond issue in November. Its cost to the average Pleasanton household would be $20 per year over the next 30 years, said Edgar.

Once the LAVWMA pipeline were authorized by voters, the city could choose from the following sewer solutions:

(1) — Expand the VCSD plant to 8 m.g.d and phase the old plant into that one, which has been the game plan all along. New costs are estimated at $1.17 million to $2.7 million, including Pleasanton's share in the LAVWMA pipeline.

(2) — Build a new 2 to 2.5 m.g.d. plant and an intercepter to the LAVWMA pipeline and divert Pleasanton Valley sewage to VCSD. Cost of this plan varies from $6 million to $11 million.

(3) — Build a new plant and send everything through the LAVWMA pipeline. Most optimistic cost for this is estimated at $8.2 million.

(Stage development, part one — into LAVWMA pipeline by paying for it with $1 million in the Sunol plant fund, plus connection fees from Sunol and VCSD plants. This would cost nothing in the first stage, but only the status quo would be maintained with some growth in the nothern part of the city if VCSD can expand to 6 m.g.d.

Stage two of this plan would be to divert Pleasanton Valley to VCSD. The buy-in would cost $1 5 million, but there could be a total pay-back through later connection fees from the room in the Sunol plant created by the Pleasanton Valley diversion to VCSD.

The third stage would have many options open, said Campbell, including building a new plant diverting the remainder to VCSD and several others.

Who will control our water rights?

The intensely fought political campaign that has catapulted Zone 7 from relative obscurity to valley-wide prominance will come to a close on Tuesday when voters choose three men from a field of eight to take seats on that wateboard.

Zone 7 is one of ten zones in the Alameda County Flood Control and Water Conservation District. Its primary responsibilities are to furnish flood control protection and deliver water to local retailers (Livermore, Pleasanton and Valley Community Services District).

How well th zone has performed those tasks, and whether it should assume the new responsibility of sewage treatment, have been central concerns in the race.

The decision by long-time Zone 7 directors Robert Becker and Harlan Zodtner to retire this year have paved the way for at least two new faces on the zone board.

The seat of incumbent chairman David Harris is also up for grabs, and he is in the fight for re-election.

Underlying the campaign is the understanding that whoever controls water in the valley has a great deal of influence over what direction the valley will take in the future.

That realization has induced six experienced valley officials and two lesser known valley residents to seek the three open seats on the seven-member board of directors.

Archer Futch is a 51-year old physicist and long-time valley resident. Last March, Futch completed a term as Livermore mayor and city councilman. He has served on the Livermore Planning Commission, Livemore-Amador Valley Water Management Agency (LAVWMA), Valley Planning Committee, Bay Area Sewage Services Agency, and the Association of Bay Area Governments.

Futch is against efforts by Zone 7 to "get into the sewer business." He opposes the zone providing independent sewage faciltities in the valley because he thinks it would destroy the tax base of the cities, ruin local planning and place an increased economic burden on valley residents.

To preserve the underground water basin, he advocates that all land spraying of effluent be ceased.

Ken Hart is a 43-year-old building contractor who has never before sought public office. He says his main concern is for "common, ordinary people like myself — the so-called silent majority."

His "Have A Hart" campaign is being waged to provide voters with an alternative to the "old gang of politicians" Hart says have already shown they can't bring the valley together.

Hart would like the zone to stay out of development issues, and if elected he says he'll work to phase the zone out of existence within 15 years.

David Harris is the only incumbent in this year's race. He was first elected to the zone board in 1972, and served this past year as board chairman.

Harris has been working overtime to extricate himself from a spot on a Miller-Futch slate. He asserts there is no such slate, and says he's been painted into a corner.

Harris is proud of the new Del Valle Water Treatment Plant, which he says fulfills the zone's promise to bring better water to the west end of the valley.

The 40-year old lawyer and former physicist opposes the "awkward interface" betweeen LAVWMA and Zone 7, and he'd like to see the zone take over wastewater management if LAVWMA approves.

Ed Kinney, a 38-year-old pharmaceutical salesman, entered the zone race "to prevent the zone's policies from being dictated by Don Miller paranoia." His decision to run was a "defensive manuever."

Kinney wants to prevent the zone from being used to restrict individual property rights, a prospect he fears if the "wrong people" get elected.

Kinney served as mayor Pleasanton City Councilman from 1972- to 1976.

If elected, Kinney promises to provide ample water for desirable deevelopments, including Las Positas New Town if it meets county-wide requirements.

Gib Marguth is a 42-year-old engineer from Livermore. He is a former Livermore mayor and city councilman and is currently co-chairman of the Livermore Bicentennial Organization.

He was a leader in Citizens for Better Water, the organization instrumental in passing the Project II bonds to build the Del Valle Water Trpatment Plant.

Marguth is sympathetic to the plight of farmers and ranchers who he says have been "squeezed from every direction."

He thinks the zone's participation in wastewater management will evolve in the interest of valley harmony.

Don Miller, a 48-year old chemist and former mayor of Livermore, is almost an issue in himself. Miller has been called "paranoid" and "uncooperative" by his opponents, some of whom entered the race in an effort to keep Miller from winning.

Name change was really nothing new

PLEASANTON — "Pleasanton School," says the female voice at the other end of the line.

"Pretty sharp! The name just got changed last night and already you're using it like a pro."

"Listen," secretary Zora Watt confesses.

"I've been calling it Pleasanton School for the past 18 years."

The official change was made by the Pleasanton Elementary School District board at their Wednesday night public meeting. The school, on the corner of First Street and Abbey, is mostly an intermediate school now except for two kindergartens.

Valley View School will assume administration of the tiny tots next year, and Pleasanton School principal Ron Alsup will be in charge of the school's 970 sixth, seventh and eighth graders.

Alsup is no more impressed than his secretary with the name change from "Pleasanton Elementary School."

Says Alsup, "Our sign already says Pleasanton School. So do our T-shirts, our newsletter and our handbook."

One of the city's oldest schools, Pleasanton School was once called Pleasanton Grammar School. This is the first year it has The latest name change was inspired by student council president Richard Kirkorian, who asked the school board to make official what has been done in practice for years.

San Ramon's schools are staying put

Schools in the San Ramon Valley and other districts will not be annexed to Walnut Creek, the Contra Costa County Board of Education decided Wednesday night.

Board members voted 5-1 to kill the proposal after evidence arose that the move was illegal, but left the door open for an appeal by proponents of the plan.

Meeting as the Committee on School District Organization, board members took heed as the attorney for the Acalanes Union High School District warned of possible litigation if the plan was accepted.

The organization committee did not set any further meetings to hear unification proposals.

Pleasanton housewife initiates campaign against Las Positas

PLEASANTON — A Muirwood area housewife is mobilizing opposition to the proposed I-680 overcrossing at West. Las Positas Blvd.

Cookie Clark says at least 17 families in her neighborhood are opposed to it, and she'll attempt to track down more before city council takes up the issue again Monday night.

She hopes to pack the meeting with dissenters.

Mrs. Clark, who has lived at W. Las Positas and Muirwood Drive for four years, is circulating a petition against the proposed overpass.

Thirty-five people signed the petition by yesterday morning, said Mrs. Clark. She was on the march again last night in search of 100 signatures.

The petition supports council proposals to go ahead with an overpass planned at the future Stoneridge Shopping Center. It also backs the council's suggestion of a footbridge at W. Las Positas. That, says Mrs Clark, would eliminate the dangerous practice of dashing on foot across I-680 Handfuls of school students brave speeding freeway traffic every day on their way to and from classes.

The Pleasanton mother of four took up her crusade against W. Las Positas Wednesday night. She was enraged, she says, by press coverage afforded overpass proponents.

Mrs. Clark claims the overcrossing would channel too much traffic through her neighborhood. It would travel at speeds up to 50 miles per hour, she said, and pose a hazard for young children.

"West Las Positas would become another Hopyard Road," she said. "People would use it as a short cut to shopping centers. "I don't want shopping center traffic of that street."

Wednesday evening Mrs. Clark rang 17 doorbells as her campaign got underway. All 17 families signed the petition, she said, and pledged support at the next council meeting. "I'll transport them myself if I have to," she said.

"There are probably some people who are in opposition to me," conceded Mrs. Clark "But there must be a lot of people who agree with me.

Now this thing is getting hot. The council has to know that somebody's behind them."

Livermore's maid picked this evening

LIVERMORE — One of 10 young ladies will be crowned Maid of Livermore at the Chamber of Commerce Pageant Dinner Friday night at the Castlewood Country Club.

Contestants will appear in swim suits and formal gowns for the Pageant and also will be interviewed by the judges, Jo Betty Allen, Joyce Getty, Ed Kinney, Bob Philcox and Wanda Pollard. The Maid will be selected primarily on the basis of poise and personality.

The young lady crowned Maid of Livermore will represent the city at community functions during the coming year and will have a chance to compete for the Maid of Alameda County title. She also will receive a $200 savings bond.

Strike hits hospitals hardest

Alameda County Bureau

OAKLAND — Conditions at the county's Highland General Hospital deteriorated in the second day of a strike by some 3,000 members of service employes unions.

Adding to the embroglio were charges and counter-charges of violence and vandalism between the unions and county officials.

The hospital was reduced to 45 patients yesterday, with another 10 expected to be transferred today. Surgical nurses "were down to near zero," a spokesman said, but doctors were reporting for work.

All 30 nurses scheduled to work the midnight shift Tuesday failed to report, forcing the swing shift to work double time through the night.

Hospital officials said the index of available doctors and nurses was missing as well.

Fairmont Hospital in San Leandro, which was nearly normal Wednesday, has closed its alcohol detoxification center.

The Board of Supervisors in its morning meeting resolved to hire part-time, temporary clerks to work where needed, but modified their motion by the afternoon to apply only to superior courts.

Only 9 of 32 superior court clerks reported for work yesterday, forcing judges and their bailiffs to handle their own paperwork and evidence.

Presiding Superior Court Judge Robert K. Barber and County Clerk Rene Davidson were reported coordinating efforts to bring in retired court clerks to fill the vacancies.

County Administrator Loren Enoch released figures that show 4,003 of the county's 6,975 non-management personnel were at work yesterday, an increase of nearly 2 per cent from the first day of the strike.

But some of the figures for individual departments rely on absentee reports from Tuesday.

Also questioned is an increase of some 300 workers reporting to social services agencies.

Social services and health agencies' employes are considered the more hard-line of the strikers.

No problems are anticipated in next week's primary election.

Enoch said voting booths have been moved out of the warehouse and loaded on trucks for delivery to 1,248 precints next week.

He said he expects no trouble from drivers, members of Teamsters' International local 70, whose representatives said they will honor the picket lines.

The automatic voting equipment will be handled by county employes in county vehicles, he said. The Registrar of Voters' office has been calling 200 precinct workers for the election.

The strike took a macabre twist when county officials reported 12 suture needles used by coroners after autopsies were stolen.

They also claim a "foreign substance" — presumably water — was added to the corners' vans' gas tanks.

Thirty-one of the department's 43 employes were at work yesterday.

Union officials said two pickets were brushed by ambulances at Highland Hospital.

The county, in turn, claims pickets were using their placards to take swats at cars at the entrance to the county's downtown Oakland parking lot.

One picket had to be pulled out of the way by patrolling deputy sheriffs, a witness said. No injuries or arrests were reported.

More than 100 type fonts for electric typewriters were reported stolen from the county's health and welfare buildings.

Sheriff's deputies may be "drawn back," county sheriff Tom Houchins said. Fifteen private security guards have been hired at $7 per hour, and that, he claimed, is less expensive than overtime for deputies, who have been scheduled for 12 hour shifts, six days per week.

County negotiator Jim Marshall has been meeting with state mediator John McCarthy and the Alameda County Central Labor Council, which has endorsed the strike.

No direct contact has been made with the unions, however.

Meanwhile, the Board of Supervisors has been in and out of executive sessions all week in anticipation of any new offer from the unions.

The county has offered members of the Service Employes Internation Union locals 250, 535 and 616 a 4.2 per cent pay and fringe benefits package.

Union negotiators say they want the same 7.6 per cent package given management last month.

No negotiations are scheduled.

We're not as Democratic

The latest report of voter registration by political party issued by Secretary of State March Fong Eu shows that valley residents are more Republican and less Democratic that Alameda County as a whole.

As of April 15, 54 days prior to the June 8 Primary Election, 66 per cent of Alameda County voters registered as Democrats, 26 per cent as Republicans. Remaining voters either registered in the American Independent Party, Peace and Freedom Party, or declined to state their party preference.

But in the southern end of Alameda County, Republicans do better and Democrats a little worse, though Democrats still account for the greatest proportion of voter affiliation.

In Alameda County Supervisorial District One, 57 per cent of the voters are Democrats and 36 per cent are Republicans.

The City of Pleasanton is nearly evenly divided, with 48 per cent Democrats and 45 per cent Republicans.

Livermore voters are divided into 54 per cent Democrats and 40 per cent Republican.

The overwhelming Democratic registration in the large cities of Oakland and Berkeley brings up the Democratic totals county-wide.

Of Oakland's 143,631 registered voters, 72 per cent are Democrats, 22 per cent Republicans. In Berkeley, 75 per cent of the 66,753 registered voters are Democrats, 14 per cent Republicans.

In the unincorporated areas of Alameda County, which includes Dublin, 62 per cent are Democrats, 32 per cent are Republicans.

Breakdowns in the Ninth Congressional District and Fifteenth Assembly District more nearly reflect the registration profile of the county.

Both seats are up for election this November, and if races were decided along strict party lines, Republicans would find the going tough. In the congressional district, 64 per cent are Democrats, 30 per cent are Republicans.

In the assembly district, 61 per cent are Democrats, 32 per cent are Republicans.

These percentages may not reflect the actual party distribution on Primary Day, since registration for the June 8 election was held through May 9, almost a month after the cut-off date for these statistics.

Tull sparked flap

Miller says water rates, water quality, and the zone's role in sewering new developments are the three biggest issues in the race.

He promises to guarantee by contract better water to the west end of the valley, and to lower rates if the commitments can't be met.

He opposes the zone's entry into the sewer business.

Tom Schweser, a 47-year-old businessman from Dublin, is a former alley Community Services District director.

Chairman of Citizens for Better Water, Schweser is proud of his role in making the Del Valle Treatment Plant a realty. He'd like to see all areas of the valley get water as equal in quality as possible.

Schweser thinks it's the zone's responsibility to provide water to an approved development no matter where it is located.

And if the zone enters the sewer business, Schweser thinks it should do so "all the way."

Medically-retired, 58-year-old Paul Tull's entry into the race sparked a constitutional controversy that paved the way for non-property holders to hold zone office.

Tull's campaign slogan is "Don't pollute our water with politics." He thinks the Zone 7 board should assume a lead role in introducing new and better methods of water purification.

CAMPAIGN 76

One valley city?

The issue of whether the valley will be come one city has no place in the Zone 7 campaign, Archer Futch declared yesterday.

Futch is a candidate in the June 8 race for three seats on the Zone 7 Board of Directors.

"It is completely incorrect to characterize Zone 7 as the future 'one city' agency for the valley," he said. "Those candidates who insist upon running for Zone 7 on a platform of One Valley City are deluding themselves and the voters."

Futch said the zone is one of at least 1,000 single-purpose agencies in the Bay Area that were established to deliver public services, in this case water. These agencies have no land planning authority and cannot implement the State Sub-Division Map Act, Futch continued.

These single-purpose agencies, he said, have been "remarkably ineffective in their ability to coordinate their plans with environmental and economic realities."

Futch said that he has "long been an advocate of good planning." He supports the general plans and Livermore and Pleasanton, and recognizes the county's authority in Dublin.

"As a Zone 7 director I would be ever cognizant of the public planning process that is already in existence for the three communities," he said.

But Futch noted that the "issue of One Valley City has no place in this campaign."

That, Futch said, is a "political decision that lests with the citizens when an appropriate ballot issue is presented to them."

Futch noted that in a 1974 survey, the majority of Livermore residents opposed the concept of a one valley city. "I have no desire to force the concept upon the valley by manipulating the legislation that created Zone 7," he said.

Hart's signs

Ken Hart, candidate for Zone 7 Board of Directors, reported yesterday that between 150 and 200 of his campaign signs have been destroyed or stolen.

Hart said he has put up 250 signs, and only a small number remain in tact. He charged that candidates' friends have taken down his signs and replaced them with other signs.

"I think they think they're doing their candidate a service," Hart said. But he said he was dismayed by the practice.

American heritage concert set for Presbyterian church

"I Am an American," a choral selection narrated by the Rev. Kenneth Richards, will be the theme song for the Livermore Civic Chorus Saturday, June 5.

Some protection tips

Summer alert issued on pets

Summertime can be danger time for your pets—especially in the Valley with its miles of countryside and blistering summer temperatures.

The California Medical Association and local vets have issued a "summer alert" to warn animal owners of health problems that might affect domestic pets this summer.

Here are a dozen tips for pet health:

●Heat Prostration: Most common when pets are locked in an enclosed auto or metal building. Death can occur. If it's impossible to take your pet with you, at least leave the windows partly open and leave a dish of water — and then only leave the animal in there a short time. Temperatures can top 150 degrees inside a parked car in the sun.

Emergency treatment includes wrapping the pet's head in cool rags or towels and placing it in the shade.

●Summer Eczema: Includes skin rashes, hot spots, parasites, fleas and other skin problems.

The answer is bug control. Pets in strange places pick up fleas, dust or dirt, Keep your pet clean, use proper flea control and keep sleeping quarters, blankets or pads clean and dry.

●Travel: Problems that affect humans, from improper diet to car sickness, also affect pets.

Not only do pets get motion sickness, they often get lost in strange areas and frequently eat the wrong foods.

They should be in good health before traveling. Plan enough room for your pet in the car, give it plenty of water and rest stops, use motion sickness medicine if needed and bring along a good strong leash.

Don't change the animal's diet, just reduce the amount of food normally served. Make sure your pet has a tag with your name and address on it.

●Shots: Rabies inoculations are important is you plan to travel far from home. While not all areas in California are officially endemic (thus not legally requiring rabies protection) most of the state still has the potential for this dread disease.

Rabies can be contracted from any warm - blooded mammal such as a bat, and pets will often play with wild animals if left to roam.

Annual shots are also suggested against another fatal disease, distemper Danger signals include watering eyes and loss of appetite or listlessness. While not contagious to humans, distemper is easily transmitted from one pet to another.

●Emergencies: Road accidents, gunshot wounds or animal fights can result in a sudden emergency for a family traveling.

Many areas have emergency veterinary clinics that are open evenings or weekends. Some local animal shelters or humane agencies also have emergency service. Consult your phone book.

In case of shock, muzzle the animal with a cloth or rope, carefully put it on a blanket and lift into the car for transportation to the hospital. Keep calm and don't make any unnecessary movements.

●Water accidents: While most animals can swim, they can drown in a swimming pool or irrigation canal because they can't climb out. If you have an open pool, make your Bowser knows the way out, or keep him locked up while you're away.

●Summer Diet: Due to the heat, animals will usually eat one - fifth to one - fourth less than usual. So reduce the amount you offer, but increase clean, fresh drinking water available.

●Wildlife: Domestic pets and wild animals don't mix. Injuries and death can result when Fluff tries to take on the bobcat.

Also, remember that it may be illegal for you to catch and keep a wild animal, and that it will probably die if you pen it up.

●Hay Fever: Frequently the same conditions that cause discomfort in humans apply to animals. As with all allergies, treatment can include oral medication, filtered air or allergy shots.

●Snakebite: Pets who are inquisitive may be bitten by a snake, most often on the nose or head

Extensive swelling may occur, and while snakebite usually is not fatal, treatment is similar to human. In rare cases, medical treatment could include skin grafts or amputation.

Keep the animal quiet, loosely apply a tourniquet and get professional treatment for the wound.

●Snail bait poisoning: Pellets used to eliminate snails look like pet food. If you think your pet has been poisoned (symptoms can include rapid breathing, severe twitching and staggering), rush him to an emergency clinic for treatment.

There is no specific antidote but sedation, intravenous and oxygen therapy may save its life.

●First aid: Charts or booklets are often available from local veterinary medical associations and other sources.

A one - page first aid chart is available free from: CVMA Publications, Box 438, Moraga, CA 94556. Include a stamped, self - addressed envelope.

Equalize thief's edge on victims

Suburbia is not crime - free.

That may not be a revelation, but the message appears to need re-emphasis, especially now that June is burglary prevention month.

Residential burglaries hit a two - year high in Livermore during April, and similar patterns can be found across the entire valley. Despite modern technological advances in sleuthing, the majority of crimes are not solved, and concurrently, the bulk of stolen goods are not recovered.

Burglars have the edge, due to the nature of their "profession." They observe the movements of people in a home, wait until the house appears empty, then move in and clean it out. No advance warning is given, and rarely does even the most inexperienced thief leave a calling card in one form or another.

Police arrive at the scene, make a list of stolen items, check for fingerprints, footprints, and any other clues left behind, and then depart. In most cases, that is the end of police involvement.

What has the homeowner lost? The average loss per residential burglary in Alameda County was approximately $300, usually in varying amounts of cash, jewelry, guns, and electronic equipment.

Of course, the homeowner might have lost a priceless heirloom with which insurance companies will fully sympathize,. Maybe furs, rare coins or camera equipment, covered only by special insurance "floaters" which most homewowners dont't bother to buy.

Or maybe the loss included guns and ammunition, knives, or other weapons, now in the hands of persons proven to be societal deviates by their very action of burglary.

The homeowner's loss is society's loss. As stolen items are funnelled through a "fence," a seemingly endless chain of crime is created and prospers. CB radios smuggled by the truckload to other cities are sold, maintaining the chain while the retail market is depresssed. Why buy a new unit when you cun get a used (and stolen) model for one-half or one-third the price?

Police agencies are utilizing manpower to their limits to combat burglaries, while attempiting to control all other crimes as well. Governmental belt - tightening, affecting all public agencies, is being felt there too.

The answer is simple: prevent burglaries before they happen. The actual solution is more difficult.

Check your home or business for security. Are there windows without locks, or easily forced open? Are the door s equipped with deadbolts locks, or just the standard pushbutton doorknob, easily twisted open with pliers or pried from the jamb with a 29-cent screwdriver?

All valley police agencies are currently conducting free security checks of homes and businesses. Officers will, upon request, tour your home and make a complete checklist of weaknesses in your security system.

In addition, they will provide each home with inventory lists and lend homeowners electronic engraving pens to permanently record valuables. Even if you are a burglary victim, the list can be given to your insurance company for partial monetary reimbursement.

Security checks can be requested by calling the following agencies: In Dublin, the sheriff's department, 829-3881; Livermore police, 443-0111; San Ramon, the sheriff's department, 372-4121; and in Pleasanton, 846-3202.

Do it today. The stereo you save may be your own.

Letters to the Times

Only disaster

Editor, The Times:

This letter is in response to the editorial by Patricia Davis which appeared in your paper on May 21.

Ms. Davis stated that plutonium is radioactive waste material and that one pound of it represents the potential for nine billion human lung cancers. The fact of the matter is plutonium is not waste but recovered for reuse in the nuclear fuel cycle. For nine billion people to acquire lung cancer the plutonium would have to be finely divided and somehow dispersed and deposited in a lung of each individual. Experience has shown that this cannot happen. Atmospheric testing of nuclear weapons prior to 1975 has put 13,000 pounds of plutonium into the environment. Plutonium has been handled in the weapons program for 30 years by over 16,000 people, none of whom has experienced adverse health effects from it. Plutonium is a potentially dangerous substance and must be handled with care. However, there are many other hazardous, non - radioactive substances on earth, such as botulinus toxin, arsenic, strychnine, cyanides, etc. And, unlike plutonium, they don't decay away with time.

The only nuclear disaster California is likely to see would be the passage of Proposition 15.

No on 15

Editor, The Times:

For Californians, Proposition 15, the Nuclear Shutdown Initiative, is not a safety issue, but a matter of the preservation of our way of life.

Proposition 15 was authored by members of the Creative Initiative Foundation and Project Survival. I agree with your editorial of May 18 that a proposition entailing the economic well being of 20 million Californians should not be framed by those who envision a way of life practiced in this country only by the Amish.

Engineers who have studied the power options available to Californians see only two consequences for this legislation. Passage lays the cornerstone for a fuel famine and economic chaos, expected by 1977, as our out - of - state natural gas is cut off. A drop in living standards, even with conservation, up to 50% is predicted by the experts.

Rejection of the initiative is the only rational option. A near status-quo position in jobs would be preserved, and air and water quality will improve as fossil fuel plants are slowly replaced.

As Mr. Anderson said so well in the Times, the only nuclear disaster California is likely to see would be passage of Proposition 15.

Water falsehoods

Editor, The Times:

Now that the rhetoric of candidates nights is over and the voters begin the process of weeding out the fact from the fiction, I feel it is necessary for patterns of thought to be corrected.

The paranoid — like comments from the supposed residentialists candidates, would have one believe that a increase in water rates since 1974 has been to pay off the Project II bonds which brought improved water to Pleasanton and Dublin.

That is a completely false allegation. It is designed to cloud the issue rather than clarify the voters understanding. Operating costs at the treatment plants and costs of chemicals have risen along with nearly all costs in our economy. Those are the reasons for the increases in user rates.

Five years ago, Marin County voters, led by the "Non — Growth Residentialist," the type who wish to control our Valley, rejected a bond issue which would have brought needed water from the Russian River. This was a project not unlike our Project II. Not only is Marin County suffering extreme water shortages and rationing now, the rates for a 5/8" water meter for residential uses have increased from $.34 per 100 cubic feet used in 1972 to $.61 per 100 cubic feet used in 1976. That represents a much higher percentage increase with no improved water quality or quantity.

Zone 7 should not be used as a tool to restrict improvements in our water supply. We should learn from the mistake made in Marin County for which the residents are now paying dearly. Voters should put statistics in the proper perspective and not be mis — led by panic striken candidates.

Ford's the one

Editor, The Times:

Republican voters still making up their minds about the merits of Gerald Ford and Ronald Reagan as presidential timber will be interested in comparing these facts:

Age — Ford is 62, Reagan 65.

Education — Ford graduated from the Univ. of Michigan and from Yale Univ. Law School. Reagan graduated from Eureka College (in Illinois).

Military experience — Both were officers in WW II, Ford in the Navy on active duty in the Pacific, Reagan in the Army making training films in California.

Political experience — Ford served 24 years in the House of Representative (8 of them as Minority Leader), then 10 months as Vice President, and in August will have completed 2 years in office as President of the United States. Reagan served as Governor of California for 8 years before retiring 17 months ago.

Of the two men, Ford is clearly the better qualified to handle the world's most demanding elective office for the next four years. With his greater fund of vital energy, his superior education in our constitutional system of liberty with justice under law, and his broader experience in both military and political affairs, we can trust him to keep our ship of state on a steadier and safer course.

Best of times

Editor, The Times:

Today, Friday, 28 May you published a letter titled "No Good Times:" and signed "A Disgusted Pleasanton Resident." It was easy to see that Mr. Disgusted resident did not enjoy the Good Times nor seem to understand the reason behind this enjoyable event.

I also am a Pleasanton resident but you can call me a pleased resident. Pleased that radio station KNBR and this fine city have worked together to put on one of the best Good Times for all to enjoy who wish to enjoy. It is very sad that Mr. Disgusted resident did not enjoy the Good Times and the happy feelings behind this enjoyable event. As Mr. Disgusted resident says it is our town, and I hope that the majority of Pleasanton taxpayers feel as I do. I know that this family has enjoyed all three past parades and is looking forward to more.

The idea of the Good Times Parade is to enjoy life. One can either let his or her hair down and parade for no reason at all (except to have a good time) or one can sit back and have a good time watching others. What better family fun and people to people happiness can there be?

I hope that Pleasanton's Chamber of Commerce and KNBR will not let a few spoil-sports who do not know how to enjoy life stop what has become a spring event that is just good fun.

Yes Mr. Disgusted resident, Pleasanton does need more Good Times Parades.

Miller saves

Editor, The Times:

A recent editorial opinion in The Times states that Zone 7 finances are being distorted by Don Miller's election year rhetoric. You say that this is not a valid issue because the Zone sells water at just above actual cost. As a Zone 7 director who has vigorously opposed the 40 percent rate increase over the past two years, let me explain why I view your position as incorrect.

Let's look briefly at how the Zone sets its wholesale water rates. Each year, the actual expenses in the previous year are tabulated. These cost include salaries, Project II bond payments, and our share of the payments for the State Water Project. The sum of these costs are divided by the total amount of water sold. The result is the actual costs per unit of water.

Now come the two catches. First, Project II costs were promised to be and can be paid for by connection fees. Second, this year, the Zone is charging 27 percent more than the actual cost in 1975. Each year, the margin of price over cost increases. By 1979, the Zone will be charging 53 percent more than it costs to produce water in the previous year.

The result is an ever-increasing stockpile of money taken from existing water users to pay for future expansions which the present users do not need.

Don Miller is the only candidate running for the Zone 7 Board who has raised the issue of excessive water rates. Don has a long and honorable record as 1) a fiscal conservative; 2) a protector of ordinary citizens; 3) a person who can comprehend complex financial and technical detail. If Don Miller is elected to the Zone 7 Board, we can end the abusive over - charges water users must now pay.

Dick Ryon
Zone 7 Director

Time to cooperate

Editor, The Times:

The issue of cooperation between jurisdictions has been raised in this supervisorial race. I believe that we will continue to have hostilities and problems in this Valley as long as John D. Murphy remains our Supervisor. His influence on the County has helped to make it a dictorial and antagonistic body.

A look at the record bears out this statement. The Alameda County Board of Supervisors, encouraged by Murphy, has been fighting virtually every governmental juridctions in the Valley over the Kaiser Dump two to three years ago, and Las Positas 'new town' more recently. Additionally, they carried their war over the Kaiser Dump to the State Water Resources Board and are currently fueding with the Association of Bay Area Governments (ABAG) over Las Positas and regional planning policies.

In other areas the Board has continuing problems working with the State over mental health programs, to the point that the State is about to "make an example" of Alameda County by cutting their funding. The Board is also arguing with the State over handling of the Welfare programs with respect to their abnormally high ratio of welfare personnel to welfare recipients.

The fact that the Board of Supervisors has considerable difficulty working with other jurisdictions has been raised by candidates running in two other districts, four and five, where seats are also up for election.

I believe that John Murphy bears the direct responsibility for many of the intergovernmental problems in this Valley. It's time to make a change on the Board of Supervisors so that the County and local governments will be able to work together.

Candidate for
Alameda County Supervisor

Murphy stand hit

Editor, The Times:

Regarding Supervisor Murphy's political advertisements; "Just For The Record — Supervisor John D. Murphy made the motion which will keep the garbage out of Kaiser's depleted gravel pits."

Well, just for the record, I would point out that in the four years that the Committee Against a Garbage Environment (CAGE) and the other groups in this valley fought the Kaiser Plan, not once did Mr. Murphy give support to the 27 groups that opposed the plan, nor did he ever voice his opposition to Kaiser's proposal.

Actually the vote that Mr. Murphy refers to meant very little. It was simply one way of "passing the buck" to the State Water Resources Control Board for the ultimate decision.

I mention this, just for the record.

Chairman, CAGE

round the town

"Planning a vacation is half the fun." That's what they say. But they have never planned such a journey at our house.

"I think five days in London, five days in Ireland, a few days in Scotland and the rest of the time visiting your relatives and just touring the countryside," she suggests. The lady in our house, if nothing else, has an expansive imagination.

"How on earth are we going to accomplish all that in something less than three weeks? I ask, stupidly. All those years in the Royal Canadian Navy taught me about things like getting from Point A to Point B in an acceptable span of time.

Our problem is we have too many points.

"My sister says we are taking on far too much in such a short time," I announce, authoritatively. "My sister suggests we skip Ireland."

"Your sister does not have her family roots deep in Irish soil," says the lady once known as O'Shea "There is no way we are going clear across the Atlantic and not see Ireland!"

Since England is the bare root of my side of the family, I am on ticklish ground. No sense in starting another Irish - English war, particulary on American soil. So Ireland is definitely back on the itinerary.

"I don't know why we are going to Scotland, since neither of us has any relationship whatsoever to that soil," I assert. My closest Scottish connection was neighbors on either side of our house in my growing - up years. They were related, and they fought like hell. It was like living on the Maginot Line.

"We are not going all that distance and fail to get at least a glimpse of Scotland," she announces. At this rate we are going to get a glimpse of everything in the Upper European Continent, but not much more.

"Do you have any idea how BIG the British Isles are?" I demand. "It's not like stopping off at Danville on your way back from Oakland," I remind her. But to no avail.

I have just about resolved that taking one big vacation once in your lifetime is worse than never having travelled outside PSA's flight pattern. Us one - time travellers try to cram the world into one hectic tour. Reminds me of the time we took all the kids to Disneyland. "Make the most of it," I warned them. It was one of my more regrettable pronouncements.

I know of no Disney venture in England. But it seems to have more than enough attractions to exhaust even the most energetic American tourist, particularly in less than three weeks.

"I don't see how we can take in more than two London stage shows, and that gives us the second week to use our BritRail pass to Edinburgh, hop over to Ireland for a couple of days, and then back to the South of England to see some of the countryside." It is my best and my final offer.

Strangely enough, she goes along with that plan. All that remains now is to dash off a quick note to my sister who holds forth at Canada House in London. She is arranging things at that end, as they say.

"Did you mail that letter to my sister?" I ask, nonchalantly, next day.

"Sure did — sent it off this morning first thing," she replies, proudly.

"Oh," I say, sadly. "We may have to write her again. I just remembered the Queen has her official birthday on June 12, and that's when they parade the Palace Guard. Quite a sight. I don't think you'd want to miss it."

"Oh yes, we'll certainly want to see THAT," she agrees.

"On June 12 we are in Edinburgh, according to that firm and final travel plan." I am beginning to see why most travel agents develop ulcers.

Fortunately, a great number of our acquaintances have visited or lived in the British Isles. Their counsel has been most helpful in planning our journey.

"Be certain to visit Sheffield," Ken advises.

"Why on earth would they want to waste time in the industrial north?" Les responds. "All the really lovely country is in Suffolk and Kent, then over to Somerset and Devonshire."

Englishmen are terribly proud of their native county. As such they make terrible guides, for the American tourist who must see it all in 19 days.

"Please don't call us tourists," my travelling companion and chief proof reader advises. I would hope your English relatives and my Irish cousins would think we were more like part of the family."

Yes, and I can't wait until one of them brings up that 200 - year - old difficulty between London and Belfast. If the two of us are still talking at the end of this trip, it will be a bloody miracle.

MIKE ZAMPA

Hardly elementary

Ominous tidings this week from an advertisement in the Sunday supplements. Nicholas Meyer, author of "The Seven Per Cent Solution," is going to publish yet another forgery of the Sherlock Holmes casebook.

According to the flack preceding the novel, it is the second recently discovered manuscript from the secret files of John H. Watson, M.D , retired assistant surgeon of the Fifth Northumberland Fusiliers

Rubbish.

Everyone knows that Watson's unpublished accounts are filed under lock and key at Cox's Bank in Charing Cross. If the good doctor had wanted these tales of Holmes publicized, he would have seen to it. There are some juicy yarns in that vault, to be sure, such as the case of The Giant Rat of Sumatra. But Watson, a proper sort, deigned that the world wasn't prepared for such grizzly goings on. No doubt the holder of the vault key has his instructions. When the populace is fit to fathom this grave account, it will be released.

And along with it, other stories of the elementary pursuit of crime.

One thing's for sure, the accounts won't be edited by Nicholas Meyer. He has no pipeline to Holmes history. His stuff is pure fantasy.

The advances of his latest creation alone are preposterous. We are to believe that the immortal sleuth immerses himself in a murder embroglio encompassing Britain's theatric heritage. Caught up in this web of foolishness are George Bernard Shaw, Oscar Wilde, even Gilbert and Sullivan.

In his "Seven Per Cent Solution," Meyer had Holmes consorting with Sigmund Freud.

It's all bunk.

None of this flowed from the quill of Dr. Watson. Of course the doctor and the detective extricated kings and queens from briary bogs. They served some of the famous names in history. But seldom were their renowned clients revealed.

Royalty, heads of state — all were served with delicate discretion. Holmes lived with the pressure of preserving their dignity. Watson fielded the ticklish problem of spotlighting his comrade's brilliance without focusing on sensational scandal.

It was done because Holmes and Watson were English gentlemen. Obviously Nicholas Meyer is not. He is blatantly twisting the subtle style of two folk heroes.

Meyer convolutes the Holmes aura with a psychological interpretation. It doesn't jibe with the more than 1,000 pages of case history set down by Watson. As far as Holmes was concerned, heredity determined admittance to the criminal society. No amount of counselling from the great Freud could break the chain.

The idea of dredging up new Holmes tales is not far-fetched. Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, in fact, rescued the detective once himself. At the height of his popularity, Holmes, in "The Final Problem," experienced his one published confrontation with the nefarious Professor Moriarity. There was a struggle high above a river gorge, or so it seemed from the clues, and the only conclusion to be drawn was the great Holmes had plummeted to his death.

For several years the reading public believed the sleuth was gone. It clamored, however, for his return.

Sir Arthur yielded to the pressure and resumed Sherlock's career with "The Return of Sherlock Holmes." As Doyle explained it, Holmes never spilled into the gorge. He only left clues that would lead to that assumption. Then he hid underground to escape Moriarty's network of thugs and spies.

Poor grieving Watson was overwhelmed by the reappearance. Readers were overjoyed.

Once Holmes resumed his post at 221 B Baker St., he preceeded on some of his most noteworthy cases. Among them, "Valley of Fear," "Case of the Six Napoleans," and, "The Hound of the Baskervilles."

Doyle wasn't criticized for restoring the world's greatest detective to his rightful position. He gave the world the real Holmes.

Meyer is giving us someone to put alongside Barnaby Jones and Harry O as mockeries of the profession.

Talk about scarring the face of tradition. They might as well reprogram Big Ben to peal out a Fleetwood Mac melody every hour.

For Friday, June 4, 1976

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You are a little slow starting today, till someone waves a dollar sign in front of you. Then stand back, for the sparks will fly.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Today, expensive diversions won't equal something you put together on the spur of the moment with a few friends for some laughs.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) In making any decorative changes around home today, be sure they're not merely decorative. If choice is necessary, favor utility.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Go out of your way to pay compliments if they're deserved. However, don't be lavish with your praise if it isn't really earned.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Take advantage of your ability today to develop situations that can spell personal gain or advancement. You are extra clever in this area.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Your motivation today should be the right thing to do. Don't move on the possibility of praise or blame by your peers.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Looking out for the other guy will be far more profitable today than promoting narrow self-interests. Unselfishness pays.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Even though you have friends who can help you businesswise today, resist imposing on them. If you want to call them for a friendly chat, OK.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You can attain important goals today if you involve only those who have a specific role in the situation. Don't bring along outsiders just for the ride.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Today your outlook is extremely flexible. You'll know how to put to good use any tidbits of information.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Take time today to help sort out a complicated problem if asked by someone you're close to. Your reward could be a pleasant surprise.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Flashes of inspiration today may be well worth heeding. You are at your best when you have to make spot decisions.

Opening lead — J ♦

By Oswald & James Jacoby

This may well be the comic hand of 1976. All the players were great experts which may explain what happened. Experts can play better than anyone, but they also can play worse.

The game was match points and East and West were not vulnerable. Therefore, East decided to try a screwball, notrump to stir things up. South's double was correct and West's two-club call was designed to ask East to show a suit, but East passed, whereupon South jumped to three notrump.

West opened the jack of diamonds. South won with his king, looked over the enemy convention card to see that the jack lead showed either zero or two higher. So South decided to get brilliant. He led the 10 of clubs to dummy's queen, played a low spade and stuck in his king. At this point the defense could have cashed seven more tricks, but West decided that East had a long heart suit. He led his jack of hearts and South made the five notrump he had available from the start of the play.

Ask the Jacobys

A Tennessee reader wants to know why modern players use all sorts of fancy opening lead conventions.

The answer is that standard lead conventions are not perfect and these young experts are trying to improve on them. So far they have not really succeeded.

"Good heavens! With movies like that being made, how do they EVER expect to control world population?"

MV has seven All-Stars

Watching Monte Vista High School wrap up the East Bay Athletic League baseball championship two weeks ago, a Danville sportswriter claimed that six Mustangs would make the league's all-star team.

He was wrong. Seven Mustangs were honored to highlight the coaches selections made public yesterday in Dublin.

The champs placed senior pitcher Gregg Goodman, senior second baseman Mark Silva, junior shortstop Kevin Jones and senior outfielder/ designated hitter Mike Mattson on the 11-player first team. Undefeated sophomore pitcher Brad Miller, firstbaseman Barry Long and outfielder Greg Bisbee, the 'Stangs lead-off batter, made the mythical back-up squad.

Surprisingly, second-place Amador Valley placed only one player, junior right hander Rob Wicks on the first team. Wicks himself was no surprise choice, however, as he compiled a ninegame league win streak with an 0.61 earned run average.

Comparitively, Goodman, the other first team hurler, was 10-3 overall with an 0.70 ERA.

California's brother act, Bret and Chuck Cary was another notable addition to the first team. A pitcher thirdbaseman, Bret made he list as a utility man while Chuck, also a power-pitching left hander, was honored as an outfielder.

Sixth-place San Ramon contributed catcher Paul Miller and first baseman Rick Hanson to the elite 11 while Granada's powerhitting shortstop Vance Rushing and Livermore three-sport star Rich Palmer rounded out the selections.

The EBAL is seemingly assured of high quality baseball next season as only five seniors adorned the first team. All profess further ambitions, baseballwise.

Miller, who may play with the Tri-Valley Cubs semi-pro team this summer, is headed for the University of California unless he's drafted by a major league club — both Philedelphia and Los Angeles have expressed interest in the mustachioed backstop.

Goodman, meanwhile, will attend the University of California at Davis while Mattson, who jokingly said he had "turned down a scholarship to Harvard," and Silva will go the junior college route, enrolling at Diablo Valley College in Pleasant Hill to play under coach Erni Cecaci.

Palmer did not attend the team's picture-taking session and was unavailable for comment but with good high school careers in football (he made this summer's Alameda County All-Star team) and soccer under his belt, is a safe bet to continue his athletic career collegiately.

Big inning gives Cubs opening win

The Tri-Valley Cubs scored five runs in the sixth inning and held on to beat the Antioch Realtor 10-8 in a California Baseball Association opener Sunday in the delta city.

With the score tied at four in the sixth, winning pitcher John Prieto broke the game open with a two-strike suicide squeeze bunt that scored both Bob Chapman from third and hustling Tony Candelaria from second.

A 380-foot solo homer over the left center field fence by Jim Florence in the eighth clinched the win for Tri-Valley, now 5-9 overall in its first season of semi-pro competition.

Prieto went the distance, striking out nine while giving up six earned runs on 10 hits and three walks. Al Brown absorbed the loss for Antioch.

Right fielder Bob Moore continued his hitting tear, going 3-for-5 to maintain a stratospheric .565 overall batting average.

Candelaria also doubled as he, Florence and Steve Kreckle hadtwo hits each.

In non-league action last week, the Cubs fell twice to Oakland's E. Bercovich, 4-3, and 9-8, in games played at Chabot College in Hayward.

Moore was again the stand out player in that series. He hit two home runs and went 4-for-9 over both days. In a six-inning relief stint in the Saturday game, Moore got the loss but went six innings and gave up just two earned runs.

Florence, meanwhile, showed his versatility by stepping in at shortstop when regular Dean Bush, up from San Diego State University, pulled a ligament. Bush will be out two to three weeks.

Despite the club's below .500-record, co-coach Duane Forget is looking forward to the CBA season.

"We have enough talent," he said. "It's just a matter of when they get their heads into it — right now the guys think they may be a little out of their league."

In their league, the Cubs face an 11 a.m. game Sunday at Big Rec Park in San Francisco against the Oakland Ravens.

Stohr aims for state title

Most track buffs will agree that top competition generally brings out the best in outstanding runners.

That being the case Diana Stohr of Granada High School should reach her peak at the California High School State Track Championships at Edwards Stadium in Berkeley today and tomorrow.

Stohr will compete in the 880-yard run against some of the top girl middle-distance runners in the country. Her qualifying time of 2:15.8 is the fourth fastest in the state. She should lower that considerably at Berkeley. Alice Trumbly of Coalinga of the Central Section has the fastest time, a blazing 2:12.3. "I'm just going to try and run to qualify in the trials," the Matador senior said. "I really don't have that much of an idea about my opponents."

Stohr ran away with the first place medal at the North Coast Section Meet of Champions Saturday, beating arch-rival Sheri Williams of Livermore, who recorded a 2:19.5 for second place.

"I figure it will take between a 2:06 and 2:10 to take first place," she went on. "All I'm going to do is try my best."

Williams also has a chance to place. She's only a sophomore and has been improving rapidly in this, her first season of track.

Other East Bay Athletic League athletes who will compete in the Big Meet are Dublin hurdler Chuck Gangnuss, San Ramon discus thrower Mike Bowles shotputter Carol Dolsby of Monte Vista and the Gael boys' 440-yard relay team of Gangnuss, Jon Batchelor, Ricky Chan and Jim Boulware.

Ganguss will run both the 120 high highs and 330 lows. He must finish in the top three to advance to the finals tomorrow.

Gangnuss has a seasonal best of 14.2 in the highs and will probably have to run at least that fast to qualify. State leader Tom Bobertz of Serramonte of Daly City is in the same heat and he has run 13.8.

Gangnuss has a best of 37.9 in the lows and gained some luck when he was placed in heat two, probably the weakest of the three heats. Tim Chambers of Santa Monica has the second heat's fastest time with a 37.1 clocking. However, Gangnuss has the advantage of experience on the slow Edwards Stadium track, as the Meet of Champions was held there last week.

Gael coach Tom Cathcart thinks Gangnuss has a chance in both hurdle races.

"Right now his best event is probably the highs," Cathcart admitted. "However, compared with the men in his lows heat, he may have a better chance in the 330s."

The Gael 440-yard relay team is in tough company in heat two.

Dublin brings a 43.2 best into the meet against Kennedy of the Southern Section with a 41.3 and Piedmont Hills of San Jose with a 41.7. With some good passing the Gaels could probably break 43.0 but that may not be enough against the tough competition.

Bowles took second in the Meet of Champions with a 172-2 toss. His qualifying mark is only 12th best on the list but he has thrown 175-7 this year. Also he seemshave broken out of a brief slump. The Wolf senior led the Meet of Champions trials with a 168-foot toss and had one over throw over 170 feet in the finals.

Kevin Corbett of El Dorado Southern Section, has the leading qualifying mark of 184-2 but Mark Malone of El Cajon has the best seasonal throw with a 192-6 toss.

Dolsby should be in tough in the shot put. Her qualfying mark of 38-9¼ is only 18th best among the entrants. She has a seasonal best of 40-1, however and could reach the finals.

The trials start at 12:30 p.m. today with the girls' high jump the first event. On Saturday the field events begin at 12:30 and the running events start at 1:30.

3 missing backs

Gael ghosts give hope

The atmosphere surrounding spring football practice at Dublin High School is an air of controlled confidence despite the fact that the Gaels' three returning varsity running backs missed both weeks of non-contact drills.

What brings a sheepish smile to head coach Wayne Re's lips is their collective excuse: Chuck Gangnuss, Jon Batchelor and Jim Boulware, who gained 1140 yards in nine games last season, are busy practicing for the California Interscholastic Federation track meet today and tomorrow in Berkeley.

The trio joined with senior Ricky Chan to sprint a 43.4 440 relay last week to qualify for the state meet, speed that might bring outright arrogance to many a team in the run-oriented East Bay Athletic League.

But he Gaels are not yet polished enough to sit back and wait for the championship trophy which came their way in 1974 to return.

"We've got to find some linemen to block for those guys," said Re, entering his second season as Dublin's head coach. "We're kind of thin up front."

Only seven lettermen return this season and only two, Bob Klein and Al Christensen, are interior linemen.

Blocking would seem to be mere icing on the cake for the Dublin running game with Gangnuss, who will also race in the hurdles today, Boulware and Batchelor being joined by promising juniors Dennis King, a fullback who played junior varsity last season and Brad Taylor, a swing back with JV experience.

Defense, the Gaels' glaring weak spot a year ago, is receiving special attention this spring; with adjustments being made in Dublin's 5-2 alignment.

"I don't want to say what we're doing," Re said. "The other guys can find out when the time comes."

He hinted that changes were also in the works offensively, where returning starter Sean Mays is being challenged for the quarterback job by Mike Harding.

Potential receivers include Cidrio Leron and Dan Pearson along with a pair of players who just came out this week, Jeff Barnes, who recently underwent oral surgery, and Charlie Yamada have looked good in their brief appearances.

At tight end, returnee Harvey Trump looks strong along with Mark Martin.

The revamped defense will include Klein and Christensen, a pair of two-way players, up front with linebacker Marty Sparling showing well along with Steve McNab and Tom Futak.

In the secondary, Dave Seropian is the standout along with 48-minute men Leron and Pearson.

With 40 players currently out for varsity and 45 vying for JV spots, Re plans no actual cuts.

"We'll trim the varsity down to about 35," he said. "But the only kids we'll get rid of entirely are the ones who can't help us mentally.

California Scientists Urge NO on 15.

"We as scientists and engineers believe that the energy crisis is a serious and growing problem for the United States. Every day our Country becomes more and more dependent on foreign nations for our energy resources. If we do nothing to free ourselves from this dependence, we will soon reach the point where another oil embargo could result in massive disruption of our economy. We therefore believe that passage of Proposition 15 is contrary to the best interest of the people of California and the United States. Its practical effect would be to restrict the use of one available major source of electricity just when it is most needed. We urge the voters of California to vote No on 15."

Christi Crux Chorale

Christian folk group to appear in Dublin concert

DUBLIN— The Christi Crux Chorale, popular Christian folk singing group from Concordia College in Portland, Oregon, will be presented in concert at St. Philip Lutheran Church, 8850 Davona Dr. in Dublin, June 10, at 8 p.m. Led by Dale Fisk, the group is on a 43 week tour of the Western United States.

While there is no set program for each of the more than 260 appearances of the Chorale, included in the repertory of the group will be "Biblical" musicals, folk songs, traditional and gospel hymns, traditional and contemporary choral anthems, and audience participation songs. Instruments accompanying the Chorale range from piano and guitar to kazoos and glockenspiel.

"Something for everyone" is the key to each program. Having traveled more than 20,000 miles in the Pacific Northwest, the Chorale has been enthusiastically received by all age groups, making this praticular experience a good opportunity for entire families to spend an evening of musical fun and spiritual refreshment together.

According to Miss Kim Faarborg, president of St. Philip Youth, the program is open to the public free of charge. A free will offering will be taken to help defray the group's expenses. Additional information may be obtained by calling St. Philip Lutheran Church, 828-2117.

Christian training course starts Jun. 6

WALNUT CREEK— The Christian Life and Witness course, taught to hundreds of thousands in Billy Graham Crusades around the world, will begin in the Diablo Valley area, June 6, at the Walnut Creek Presbyterian Church.

This important lay-training program to extend over a four-week period will be taught here by Billy Graham Team member, Grover Maughon of Atlanta, Georgia Mr Maughon explains that the course covers the basics of what a Christain is and does, what his life should be and how he should interact in society as he attempts to reach out to it in Christian witness.

The classes are open to all without obligation. The study guide is provided free along with other materials for the classes. It is expected that all signing up for the classes will attend one class per week only, in the location most convenient to him. "To the average person," says Mr. Maughon, "this course provides real opportunity for renewed Christian experience and discipleship. A young man recently completing the four classes said, 'I've been a Christian for years I was raised in the church and have always gone, but as a result of these classes everything seems to come together. The whole thing has taken on new meaning!'"

Presiding over all the classes will be the Rev. Orville Shick, of Danville, chairman of the counseling committee, which is responsible for recruiting for the Christian Life and Witness Course.

The class schedule is as follows: Sunday, June 6, 13, 20 and 27 at 4 p.m. at the Walnut Creek Presbyterian Church, 1720 Oakland Blvd, and at 7:30 p.m. in the Crossroads Covenant Church, meeting in the Farm Bureau Hall, 5554 Clayton Rd., Concord. Trinity Baptist celebrates 24th birthday in valley

LIVERMORE— Trinity Baptist Church will celebrate 24 years of ministry in the Livermore Valley on Sunday, June 6.

In addition to the regular worship services at 8:30 and 11 a.m. an unforgettable day has been planned.

There will be huge combined classes for the Youth Groups at Junction Ave. School and for Adults at Trinity. An attendance of 606 is expected.

Following the 11 a.m. service the church family will gather at Junction Ave. School for a church wide picnic. The day will be filled with food, games, and sports. Mr. Bob Martin, music director, will be in charge of the afternoon festivities.

At 7 p.m., Mr. Martin will change hats and conduct the church choir in a presentation of "I Love America," a patriotic musical written by John Peterson and Don Wyrtzen. The musical is presented in three sections. The first is patriotism for America, and relates a love for this land and recounts some of its history. The second section, "Praise for America," is a musical tribute to our country and to its flag. The final and third section, "Prayer for America," presents a plea for the future of our country — that the United States of America will turn back to its spiritual foundations and to the giving God of the universe. Peterson and Wyrtzen say in the foreword to their work, "Our personal prayer is that this work will bring glory to God and will stir and move the hearts of those who perform and those who listen."

As though this would not make a grand ending to the day, Trinity's family and friends will move to the fellowship hall to celebrate the 60th anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Irby of Livermore.

The public is invited to attend any or all of the days activities without charge.
